Candidate List on a Job

A new function has been introduced within the candidate list on a job which allows you to add selected candidates to another job. This enables you when looking at a candidate who you think would suit another job, to add that person to the job immediately.

The new function has been added to the right mouse click menu and an icon has been added to the job / candidate toolbar, figure 1 below.

Simply select the job you wish to add the candidate(s) to, and if running Troy in Executive Search mode select the list type and the List Status (if in use) then choose which candidates in the list are to be added, followed by the OK button.

Once the candidates have been added, the window will disappear returning you to the candidate list.

Microsoft Edge

A problem has been resolved when clicking on web links through Troy. When the new Microsoft Edge was configured within Windows as the default browser, the browser was not loaded. This would occur only when the Chromium version of Edge (Microsoft Edge with the Google Chrome engine) was installed.

This Chromium version of Edge will now display detail prints generated from Troy correctly.
