Company Page

When viewing jobs through the company page, Troy will now remember if the location drop down has been set to All locations. This will then be defaulted when scrolling through a list of companies or when opening a new page. However, if the user chooses a specific location at a company the location drop box will revert back to Head Office when the next job is displayed.

An alert is now raised (if configured within the personal settings) that shows the number of people becoming available soon.
